RED HATS FOR MÜNDELEIN AND HAYES MARCH 24

Pope to Thank U. S. by That Action.

ROME, March 6.—[By the Associated Press.]—Two American prelates are to be elevated to the cardinalate at a ceremony to be held March 24. They are Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes of New York and Archbishop George W. Mundelein of Chicago.
This announcement was made at the Vatican today. Pope Pius XI, in giving two additional cardinals to the United States, was moved by the generous response of the American people to the appeals for the suffering of Europe.
Wishes to Honor Americans.
The pontiff also is said to have desired to honor the people of the United States for their spirit of self-denial and loyalty.
Pope Pius long has admired the work of Archbishops Hayes and Mundelein. After due consideration to the claims of other countries for increases in their memberships in the sacred college, the pope decided that the United States was most deserving and that Archbishops Hayes and Mundelein were well fitted to be honored.
The Vatican expresses the view that the addition of two new American cardinals to the sacred college will add strength to the highest church council, as well as give the United States more representation both geographical and spiritual.
Cardinal Long Delays.
It was said today that for a long time the Vatican was on the point of deciding to nominate a cardinal from the United States, but that the present move finally fulfilled a proposal which had been held in suspense for months.
It was recognized that New York, because of its importance as the metropolis, should have a cardinal, but that the rest of the country could not be neglected in the bestowal of red hats, and that Chicago, the center of much important territory, could not be denied the honor.
Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, has been in conference with Vatican officials for several days.
Old to Give the News.
Cardinal O'Connell expressed delight today that the representation of his country would be raised to four. He said the nomination of the prelates was profound recognition of the loyalty and devotion of Americans toward the Holy See, and that it would be appreciated as such by the entire American church.
Archbishops Hayes and Mundelein are expected to reach Rome March 17. They will be received by Pope Pius XI before entering the conclave.
Following the elevation of Archbishops Mundelein and Hayes, the four American cardinals then would be William Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, Thomas Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia, George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago, and Patrick Cardinal Hayes of New York. Cardinal Dougherty was the successor of the late Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore.
Sister Is Overjoyed.
New York, March 6.—[Special.]—The confirmation of the fact that Archbishop George W. Mundelein of Chicago is to be made a cardinal was obtained tonight from the archbishop's sister, Mrs. Theodore E. Hopp, of Westville Centre, L. I.
The news was overjoyed when she received a telegram from her brother saying that he had received word to go to Rome as he was to be made a cardinal.
Archbishop Mundelein is due to arrive at the Grand Central station about 3 o'clock tomorrow. One of the bishops accompanying him to Rome will be Mr. Peter Quigley, pastor of St. Ignace church, Rockville Centre, a close friend.
Leaves for New York.
Archbishop Mundelein left Chicago yesterday for the Baltimore and Ohio train and is to be met at the New York station tomorrow for Rome. Accompanying Archbishop Mundelein on his trip to New York was the Rev. Edward F. Moran, auxiliary bishop of Chicago. In New York Archbishop Mundelein will be joined by Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes, who likewise will sail on the Brooklyn. He is eight years since Archbishop Mundelein was enthroned over the Chicago archdiocese. He came here from Madison as the youngest of the archbishops. His record of achievement has been exceptional.
His health has been expressed by some as being poor. Archbishop Mundelein's elevation to the cardinalate will take him from Chicago, but assurance has been given that he will not leave his flock. It is not associated that his election will remove him from Chicago.

FIGHT DUEL IN SHOP; TWO SHOT

Cop Leaves Barber Chair and Battles Bandit.

A night of unusually numerous stick-ups reached its climax early last evening in a pistol duel between a detective sergeant and a bandit in Charles Montgomery's barber shop at 2072 Canalport avenue. Both were wounded, the policeman slightly, the bandit probably fatally.
Sergeant John W. Klaska of the detective bureau was improving an off duty hour by getting shaved.
But Bandit Is Next.
Montgomery was giving a fine final shave to his chin, while Charles Schmidt of 2823 South Halsted street waited to take Klaska's place in the chair.
Then the robber entered, gun in hand.
"Sure, I'll stick up my hands," the sergeant said, rising to his feet. Tossing a $2 bill towards the bandit, he cast a furtive glance at his coat, hanging on a peg several yards away.
Klaska's police gun was in the coat pocket.
The robber stooped to pick up the sergeant's offering and then turned to the cash register. As he was removing $19 in currency Klaska sprang towards the coat. He grabbed his revolver. The stickup man wheeled around. His feet apart, they stood facing each other.
Then Dual Starts.
The shooting started, the robber retreating as he fired.
One of the bandit's seven bullets, speeding straight for Klaska's abdomen, struck a belt buckle and was deflected. It inflicted a slight skin burn. The sergeant, advancing toward his dueling opponent, kept on shooting.
As the robber turned and fled through the door a bullet pierced his back. He turned west in Canalport avenue, staggered an instant, and then rushed down the street. Although wounded, he outdistanced the sergeant, and became lost in the shadows of an alley.
Less than an hour later the bandit dragged himself into the receiving room of the county hospital, where Lieut. John P. Ryan had just called to make inquiries. He said he was George Harris, 18 years old, and had just arrived from Milwaukee. Physicians are trying to save his life.
Many Other Holdups.
Police sergeants recorded nearly stick-ups throughout the evening. One was in the loop, near the corner of Clark and Washington streets, where two bandits with guns took $100 and a watch from C. E. Jernigan, a salesman from Detroit. The victim is stopping at Hotel La Salle.

REICHSBANK HEAD REPORTS FRENCH O.K. HIS BANK PLAN

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
BERLIN, March 6.—Director Schacht of the Reichsbank returned from Paris last night, shortly before midnight, and told newspapermen that his plan for a gold bank issue had been accepted by the expert commission and approved by the French. He added that a bill to authorize the bank would be introduced to the reichstag on Saturday.
Dr. Schacht's declaration came as a surprise for Berlin, for while it was known that the details of the bank had been agreed on, and the government measure was ready, it was thought that the original Dawes plan with only slight modifications had been accepted by the German financial director.

WOULD REAL STORY OF HOW DUFFYS DIED

Gang Vengeance Is Basis of Slayings.

eral Daugherty continued today a subject of Washington discussion. Those who are close to President Daugherty reported that the President had not asked Mr. Daugherty to resign. They say that developments lately have impelled the President to change his policy of permitting Daugherty to remain in the cabinet.

In announcing their plans for proceeding with the prosecution of the case, as directed by the President, Special Counsellors Roberts and Patterson issued the following statement:

"The judge at Chicago has on Thursday, March 13, for the present suspended the trial of the case. Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Roberts will leave Washington as soon as possible and thereafter they will proceed from there to Chicago, where the preliminary hearings will be held as promptly as the convenience of the court permits."

"At the request of the government's special counsel, a special grand jury will be impaneled in the city of Washington, on or about April 1, to consider the evidence in the case. As the term of any grand jury called before that date would expire by limitation of law on March 31, April 1 is considered to be the earliest date that a grand jury investigation can be instituted."

A detailed, succinct account of the events that led to the killing of John Duffy, alias Daugherty, Philadelphia gangster and murderer, together with the evidence in the case, was given yesterday for the first time by an official investigating the crime.

In the main it was told by Jeanne Hoffman, the girl who could "handle" the job. It was pieced out and corroborated by the stories of other witnesses—some already known to the public, others related for the first time. Jeanne's story and these additional ones said last night, the basis of evidence regarding the slayings of Duffy and Maybelle Exley is completely clear. They refused, however, to assert that it would be so, having in mind the possibility of some of the witnesses.

Believe Engleke's Story.

In the first place, the police place in the story told by William Engleke, who says Duffy himself killed the Exley girl on Feb. 21, in 1923, at 1218 Carmen avenue. The case centered more about the slayings in which Duffy—whose body was found on Feb. 22 on a southwest corner—came to his death.

The growing belief that the second slaying was accomplished by one of three gangsters, driving with Duffy in an automobile, became a virtual certainty in the minds of the police and the attorneys yesterday.

To envision the crime as acting out of devotion to a cause, as acting out of Detectives William Schoemaker declared he did last night, is necessary. That property starts with the crime in Chicago of Julian Schwartz, known to all as "Yankee" Schwartz, who was not lamented by Philadelphia, Pa.

Schwartz Broke and Sick.

Here it is, as the police relate it: "Yankee" was down and out, broke and sick, and he took his troubles to Philadelphia. Miller had made a fortune in bootlegging the admits it, spent a considerable part of it in using found not guilty of two police officers' deaths. He had decided to quit the "racket" and go into a legitimate business—he promised his wife he would.

He did, but nevertheless he had a friendly feeling for those still in the "racket." So Hirsch extended the hand of friendship to "Yankee." Schwartz, fed him, clothed him, paid his doctor bills, his hospital bills, and gave him money to bring on his wife from Philadelphia—Miller did this for Schwartz. Schwartz felt the hand that helped him.

The eastern told Hirsch he had a chance to make some money with the mob. Dean O'Bannon, as Miller called him, was Miller's employee of a cleaning and dyeing shop. Miller wanted him more power and Schwartz made a new alliance with O'Bannon, Earl Weiss, Daniel McCarthy, and Al Brown.

Hurt by Ingratitude.

A year elapsed. Schwartz had never offered to buy Miller. They met not long ago and Miller told Schwartz "he was off him." Ingratitude hurt.

Schwartz, meanwhile, had brought John Daugherty, from Philadelphia, Pa., and had him under his wing. Daugherty, known to be known here as Duffy, and so he was. He became bootlegger, robber, white slaver here as he was in the east. Duffy was an accepted member of the O'Bannon syndicate. Then "Davis" Miller, fight referee and brother of Hirsch, was shot.

"Davis" was going into the La Salle theater, a first night, and he and shook hands with O'Bannon and Weiss in the lobby. Further along he met Schwartz and refused to shake hands with him, saying that he didn't like an ingrate. Schwartz untruthfully told O'Bannon that Miller had killed all three with an unprintable epithet.

Wait for Miller.

After the performance O'Bannon, Weiss, and Schwartz were waiting for Miller. O'Bannon asked what was wrong by the insult. Miller offered to fight all three with his fists. O'Bannon shot him without warning, a revolver having been put in the leader's hand by Schwartz, the accomplice. The three escaped without arrest or further hostility and a few days later

MISS HELEN HANSEN.

Would Save Others

Miss Helen Hansen is suing to collect $5,000 damages from proprietor of beauty shop who bobbed her hair in this way.

O'Bannon, Weiss, and "Dapper Dan" McCarthy, the plumbers' business agent, were caught in the act of hijacking a $20,000 truckload of booze.

Here's where Jeanne Malsion comes in. Duffy was then insisting she marry him and she kept company with him, but refused to become Mrs. Duffy. She was off in the apartment at 1218 Carmen avenue shared by Duffy and Orlando Horton and whatever women they then were fancying.

JEANNE'S STORY

Jeanne told this story:

"Duffy and Horton were partners, members of O'Bannon's outfit. Johnnie Duffy often told me how friendly he was with Hirsch Miller. One day we drove to Hirsch's home and Johnnie went in, and when he came out he had on a fine diamond ring. He said he had bought it for $300."

"That Miller is a swell fellow," he told me. "I can get anything I want out of him, even $1,000, if I ask him."

"After O'Bannon shot Davis Miller Duffy and Horton went to see Hirsch. They were always trying to get an 'in' with Miller and I found out later the purpose of this visit."

"Duffy offered to kill O'Bannon and Schwartz if Hirsch wanted him. Horton was present and heard him say he would. Miller said no, he didn't want any more trouble, that he was in a respectable business and didn't want anybody killed. I understand Miller was sore about having such a proposition made to him. Duffy swore Horton to secrecy about it."

Horton Feared Duffy.

Here again Jeanne Malsion's testimony tells of Horton's fear of Duffy. The following is an excerpt from the statement she made to Capt. Schoemaker.

"Jack Horton called me about 3 o'clock in the morning and he said: 'You had better come over here if you want to save two lives.'"

Q—Who said that, Horton? A—Yes. Q—When he said "come over" he meant come over to the Carmen avenue address? A—Yes, and I said: "What is wrong?" "Well," he said, "Johnnie is trying to kill Cecil and I." Q—And this was just a month ago? A—Less than a month ago. I went upstairs and I saw Mrs. Horton's eye and it was all black and I said, "Johnnie, the best thing for you to do is to apologize to Mrs. Horton." . . . so he said: "Cecil (Mrs. Horton), I will get on my hands and knees and apologize if you will forgive me. You are the first woman I ever hit." She said: "No, you don't need to bother. I don't forgive you and I never will forgive you, and I won't forgive my husband for letting you strike me and not defending me."

HAD TO PLACATE WIFE

The lieutenant of detectives again takes up his narrative, after stressing the foregoing incident, particularly Mrs. Horton's attitude. Horton was afraid to kill Duffy himself, the lieutenant said, and his wife had so much on him he had to placate her. "What better method?" the police officer asked, "than to have somebody else kill Duffy? He had never for-feared the other he heard Duffy make to Hirsch Miller. Within a week Horton had planned to leave Duffy in the lurch. From what we have learned we know Horton took all their joint money and the Cadillac automobile in which Duffy had a half interest. They planned their getaway to a night."

Jeanne Malsion told of Duffy's rage on the occasion of Horton's leaving. On one of Duffy's several visits to her after he had taken Maybelle to live with him, Jeanne quoted Duffy as saying, "I'll do worse than that. I'll kill his [Horton's] mother so he'll have to come to the funeral, and I can kill him."

Bill Engleke says Duffy killed the woman in a fit of rage. Jeanne Malsion's testimony strengthens this statement. Other corroborations seem to verify it. Granted that it's true, what do we find?

Duffy and Engleke start out to dispose of the body. The first one they call on is Julian Kaufman, their pal. They try to borrow an automobile from him; he finds a pretext for refusing. Duffy said, "I know some right guys that will help me." Later he said, "I promoted a car."

"That night Duffy and Engleke met Kaufman at 224 street and Washburn avenue. That morning these three had met Danny McCarthy in Elmer's restaurant on Roosevelt road. They left a message for O'Bannon to telephone Engleke at the Milan hotel, where Duffy and Engleke then went to bed."

It is not known positively that Horton went to see Miller to kill O'Bannon, but Engleke's confession tells of O'Bannon being the man who led Duffy into an automobile on Washburn avenue between 224 and 234 streets. This was an hour or so before Duffy's body was pitched out of an automobile near Argo.

DRUGGAN, LAKE, NABOBS OF BEER, GIVE UP TODAY

Millionaire Partners to Face U. S. Music.

Terry Druggan and Frank Lake, millionaire beer runners and brewery owners, finding it difficult to keep out of sight because of the current official prejudice against their calling, sent word last night to Assistant District Attorney William F. Waugh, that they will surrender at the federal building this morning.

The partners, inseparable since the days when they ruled the "valley" have been fugitives since their indictment three months ago for violations in connection with the Illinois Beverage company. This is one of five breweries, of a total value of $1,155,000, which was said to be owned by Druggan.

Although reports of their unimpeded operations reached federal circles daily, expeditions organized to bring in the pair have failed.

Writes Seal Two Breweries.

Last night Attorney John P. Bolton advised Mr. Waugh that Druggan and Lake were eager to surrender and give bond, and arrangements were made for their appearance at 10 o'clock today.

A few hours prior to the offer of Druggan and Lake to give up Federal Judge Wilkerson granted permanent injunctions against the Pilsen Products company and the Peter Hand Brewing company plants, two of Chicago's best known sources of the "real amber." They will be sealed for a year.

Judge Wilkerson, who last week ordered the destruction of $200,000 worth of machinery in the Elgin brewery owned by "Butch" Crowley, took under advisement requests for a similar ruling against the Pilsen and Hand equipment, which includes more than $1,000,000 worth of machinery.

City Treasurer John Cervenka is president of the Pilsen company.

Six alleged bootleggers and beer runners, arrested by Acting Captain of Detectives Schoemaker in the course of his hunt for the Duffy murderers, appeared before United States Commissioner Henry C. Belter, and the bond of each was fixed at $25,000.

It was found that the leader of the crew, and one of the owners of the World Motor Service garage at 3105 South La Salle street, where the whiskey roundup was made, is Nick Juffra, alias Joe D'Angelo, one of the most active "field workers" in the booze hustling enterprise.

An inventory of the liquor seized in Juffra's garage by Agent Al Johnson showed a total of 397 crates, each containing thirty-six quarts of whiskey.

WOMAN SLEUTH OUSTS OFFICIAL AT HOT SPRINGS

Little Rock, Ark., March 6.—Judge Jacob Treiber, in United States District court here today, received the resignation of A. Curi, 58, United States commissioner at Hot Springs.

Mr. Curi's resignation followed a stay of more than a month in Hot Springs by Mrs. N. R. Mahay of New York, who it has developed is a prohibition officer who has been investigating violations of the liquor laws.

Mrs. Mahay and John Hopper, state prohibition agent, conferred today with United States District Attorney C. F. Cole here on charges that Mr. Curi had offered Mrs. Mahay a bribe to leave the state. It is alleged that she apparently acquiesced yesterday afternoon, and that as she accepted a railway ticket to New York and $16 in cash Mr. Hopper and Deputy Sheriff Jim Floyd stepped from a closet from which they had witnessed the alleged transaction. Mr. Curi left the room without a word and wrote out his resignation, according to the version of the affair here.

PRICE SLASH HINTS AT NEW GASOLINE WAR

While a new scale of prices for gasoline to dealers went into effect yesterday by the Standard Oil company, officials of both that concern and the Sinclair concern denied any knowledge of a price war in the offing. Independent concerns, tied up with contracts with dealers, and the latter, themselves bound to certain costs for their gasoline, were uneasy for fear a battle between the "big fellows" would hurt them.

President Coolidge's order to the department of justice early last month that the Standard Oil company be investigated in connection with charges of profiteering was cited in some quarters as a reason for the lowering of prices. This was scouted by local officials of the concern.

The new scale is as follows: One to 99 gallons, 18 cents; 100 to 250, 16 cents; 251 to 499, 15 1/2 cents; 500 gallons up, 14 1/2 cents. Prices to the consumer at stations yesterday remained at 20 cents.

GREAT BRITAIN DROPS SINGAPORE NAVAL BASE PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

LONDON, March 6.—[Tribune Radio.]—It was officially stated today that the government finally has decided not to proceed with the scheme for the construction of a new naval base at Singapore, which, it is estimated, would cost $16,000,000 ($43,000,000), but probably would cost much more.

The government has transmitted its decision to the dominions and awaits a reply before announcing its decision in common.

The base was demanded by Australia as protection against possible danger from Japan, but Australia showed no disposition to help pay for it.

LINCOLN CENTER SUES GARDNER, FORMER BACKER

Memories of the war time "militant pacifist," the late Jenkin Lloyd Jones, cropped up yesterday with the filing of a suit for $10,000 damages by the Abraham Lincoln Center, which was founded by Jones, against James P. Gardner, president of the Gardner Reducing Manufacturing company.

Attorney William F. Thornton, who filed the suit, said Mr. Gardner had failed to pay a subscription to the famous social center. Mr. Gardner is in the south and his secretary, Miss Anna B. Booth, explained his attitude.

"Mr. Gardner was a most generous advocate of the center, which was founded on devotion to peace," she said. "But when the war came on, and Mr. Jones began urging resistance to the draft, Mr. Gardner and other of the patriotic backers withdrew their support."

BOYS TO VIE IN ANCIENT YANKEE WHITTILING ART

Whittling, long regarded as a popular "Yankee" sport, always has been associated with old men, gray beards, political gossip, cracker boxes, and hot stoves.

Charles H. English, supervisor of playgrounds for the board of education, yesterday announced a whittling contest at all schools and playgrounds. The boys may whittle away spare time and scatter shavings all over the playground. They may whittle out figures of airplanes, automobiles, steamboats, old men with gray beards or what not. The main point is to keep them interested, Mr. English says.

FLAGLER TRUST GROWS FROM 2 TO 10 MILLIONS

New York, March 6.—The $2,000,000 trust fund created in 1909 by the late Henry M. Flagler of the Standard Oil company for the care of his wife, Mrs. Ida A. Flagler, who was adjudged incompetent in that year, now has a value of $10,000,000. The annual accounting of Mrs. Flagler's estate was filed in Supreme court today.

Mrs. Flagler, now 73 years old, is a patient in a sanitarium at Central Valley, N. Y. Her condition permits automobile rides and occasionally she is brought to New York to attend the opera.

Baby Garbed in Paper Is Found on Doorstep

THIRTEEN RAIL HEADS AGREE TO SPEED TERMINAL

Notables Attend Parley with Mayor Dever.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Representatives of thirteen railroads, most of them presidents, agreed in the mayor's office yesterday afternoon to cooperate actively in solving the problem of terminal facilities for the fourteen roads entering Chicago between State street and the south branch of the river. The conference included Sir Henry Worth Thornton of Canada.

There are grave difficulties to meet, but they are not insurmountable, the executives said. They selected President James E. Gorman of the Rock Island as chairman to call a later meeting at which the plan of procedure will be decided upon. It was their opinion that an "excellent start" had been made and Mayor Dever expressed himself as highly pleased. Everyone, however, was certain it was only a beginning.

Mayor Gives City's Side

Mayor Dever made a more frank statement to the railroad officials than published interviews have heretofore attributed to him.

"The administration's view," he said, "is that failure to solve this terminal problem will do Chicago an enormous amount of damage as well as be disadvantageous to the roads. We have physical plans and legal studies to cut needed streets through the terminal area, but I feel that is not the best way to accomplish the desired results. You should work out a railway terminal plan to accommodate yourselves and the traveling and shipping public, and into this should be fitted a street plan which will substantially benefit Chicago."

Roads Voice Desire to Aid

President A. H. Smith of the New York Central lines said the roads are lacking "an immense proportion," but it was his desire, as well as that of other roads, to be helpful and constructive. He suggested that all the railroads be a committee to formulate a plan, intimating that later they will have a committee on physical development, engineering, fiscal matters, and construction. Chairman Gorman is to arrange a meeting in Chicago in the next two or three weeks.

President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio said that road probably will be most affected by the straightening of the river.

"While our facilities are now ample and can be made ample for a long period in the future," he said, "we recognize that the city's requirements are most important. The R. and O. will not oppose the developments and improvements of benefit to the city. The questions involved are not new and we will do what we can to work them out. I believe the problem must be solved. There is no reason why we should not go ahead now."

Heater Tells of Survey

H. O. Heater, president of the Western Indiana, who also represented the Wabash, said his organization had made an elaborate study of what could be developed on fifty or more acres and at the same time open up all required streets.

"We are in sympathy with the movement," he continued, "and will work as hard as we can to arrive at a successful issue."

Sir Henry Worth Thornton said the city and roads can depend upon the support and sympathy of the Grand Trunk, of which he is president.

W. E. Storey of the Santa Fe said something must be done from a railroad viewpoint.

"We appreciate that the situation is serious for the city," he remarked, "but it is a grave problem and involves both passenger and freight facilities. I suppose the first thing to find out is whether one station will accommodate all the roads. If two are required, then we should plan two."

"I was born in Chicago and am vitally concerned in the development of the city and the Rock Island," said President James E. Gorman. "We will do everything to expedite the matter."

Sabbath Presses Resolution to Investigate "Lost Legion"

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., March 6.—(Special.)—While work on the history and records of the world war prisoners in Leavenworth and other penal institutions is being rushed by the war and navy departments in response to the request of Representative Allen Moore (Rep., Ill.), who said today that he was assured the reports would be ready by the end of the week, Representative A. J. Sabath (Dem., Ill.) is seeking an early hearing before the judiciary committee on his resolution requesting the President to appoint a committee of five to review the case of the war prisoners.

"I talked today with Representative Graham (Rep., Ill.), chairman of the committee, and I am hopeful of arranging a hearing before the committee at an early date," said Mr. Sabath. "At present a day cannot be fixed because of the hearings already scheduled, including hearings on the proposed child labor amendment, and uncertainty as to the exact length of time required for them."

Civilians Control Committee

"My plan provides for the appointment by the President of a committee to consist of three civilians, one army officer, and one naval officer. Although the world war prisoners are chiefly soldiers, there are also military serving sentences imposed for war time offenses, and to be immediately effective the committee should include officers of the two departments directly concerned and having authority in the cases to be reviewed."

"The three civilians, forming the majority, should include, as I shall recommend to the President, men who are not only qualified but who are keenly interested in the human problem presented by these cases. "I intend to make my recommendations to the President after communicating with this Thursday and with the organization and individuals in Chicago who have taken up this campaign. I shall ask for suggestions, and from the names sent in to me in reply to these requests I shall select the names to be submitted to the President for his consideration."

Seeks Widespread Opinions

While awaiting the reports from the war department, and the information gathered by this Tribune, Representative Moore has sent inquiries to the commander of the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled Veterans of the World War, and other organizations, as to the views of their leaders on the proposed review of the cases of the military prisoners.

Thus far no position on the matter has been taken by the American Legion, although careful inquiry concerning the military prisoners was made by the legislative committee of the Legion a year ago. Representative Moore will confer tomorrow with Commander John R. Quinn, who is here for the hearings on the bonus before the ways and means committee.

Col. Lloyd M. Brett, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, today expressed satisfaction with the review of the cases of the Leavenworth prisoners as conducted by Maj. Starnfield and Maj. Rome. He is inclined to favor awaiting the report of the two officers to the secretary of war before deciding as to the necessity or advisability of a civilian review of their cases.

He is charged with having "shaken down" motorists on "speed" charges, later calling upon them to cash his checks, which he is said to have signed "A. H. Holman."

For the second time in as many days the guns of Little Italy talked yesterday in the curt language of the Latin feudists. This time a 19 year old boy, Joseph Tuleo of 1110 Milton avenue, dropped dead on the pavement.

The shooting occurred at Townsend and Hobbie streets, two blocks from the Sicilian "death corner" and three blocks from the scene of Wednesday's mysterious gun play. On Wednesday Philip Piccola of 876 Townsend street was wounded three times by unknown assailants at Sedgwick and Locust streets.

Police Are Blocked.

As usual, the police met only shrugs and brokenly worded protests of ignorance when they swarmed into the Italian quarter to find Tuleo's murderer.

But the custom of silence has not been bred in James Taylor, a Negro living at 848 Orleans street. Although more than a dozen persons were on the street when Tuleo fell, Taylor was the only one who would open his mouth for the police. He had been visiting a friend in a nearby house.

"While I was there," he said, "I heard some shooting and looked out. An Italian fellow, without any coat or hat, was standing on the northwest corner of Townsend and Hobbie streets. He was looking at a pistol in his hand. Then he suddenly started running and disappeared into an alley."

Detectives believe that Tuleo was shot by several men who waited in ambush behind the walls of a brick building. Five bullets had entered the boy's back, while a sixth pierced his lung.

Recently from Italy, at the mouth of an alley leading into Hobbie street, police found two .38 caliber automatic shells lying on the pavement. They located the slain man's youthful bride, Mrs. Josephine Tuleo, at the factory of the Sels Schwab Shoe Manufacturing company.

"I don't know why any one should kill my Joe," she sobbed. "He had no enemies. He was in this country only a little while."

FORBES PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO FRAUD CHARGES

Washington, D. C., March 6.—Charles R. Forbes, former director of the veterans' bureau, pleaded not guilty today before a United States commissioner to charges of fraud, conspiracy, and bribery handed down by a Chicago grand jury.

Bond was fixed at $10,000, which Forbes immediately furnished. He will appear in federal court at Chicago for trial on March 17.

CROWDS CHEER AS EGYPT TAKES OVER TUT TOMB

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

LUXOR, March 6.—Today, in the presence of more than 200 guests, including Prince Leopold Frederick of Prussia, Duke and Duchess of Anjou, the Duke of Spoleto, Viscount and Viscountess Allenby, governor general of the Sudan, and other notables, the Egyptian government officially reopened King Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb.

A notable feature of the ceremony was the complete absence of Egyptologists, none of the several well known now in Egypt, including James Breasted of Chicago, Alan Gardiner, Percy Newberry, being present, while naturally Howard Carter and his colleagues did not attend.

Thus the function, instead of being archaeological, became social, and, above all, political, for cheering crowds saw off the special trains for Cairo yesterday; thronged every station where the trains stopped on the journey to Luxor.

VILLARD JABS AT BOTH PARTIES IN TEAPOT SCANDAL

(Copyright 1924 by The Chicago Tribune.)

There is nothing to choose between the "two rotten, corrupt parties" involved in the Teapot Dome scandal, according to Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation, who spoke last night at a dinner in the Auditorium hotel.

"The country needs a new program and a new policy," he continued. "Neither of these parties offers us any progressive platform."

The speaker urged the destruction of interlocking directorates in business and the greater conservation of natural resources. He had just returned from attendance at the league of nations assembly in Geneva, Switzerland, and from travel on the continent.

"A new war is coming," he declared. "If we wish to stop it, we must do so now. I found Englishmen calmly talking of uniting with Germany to fight France. The great war was a failure as far as achieving any of its aims is concerned."

1923 INCOME TO BE CUT PAYMENT IN

O. P. Leader on Emergency

BY GRAFTON W. Washington, D. C., March 6.—Administration has decided to cut the 1923 25 per cent reduction in the tax reduction, having hard shelling.

Emergency action by Congress on March 15, the last day of the session, has been necessary to cut the 25 per cent reduction in the tax reduction, having hard shelling.

Republican leaders are convinced the Democrats will not stand against an emergency measure.

House and Senate in the agreement for such a measure. Representative Grafton W. Washington, D. C., chairman of the House committee, and Senator (Rep., Utah), chairman of the Finance committee, have agreed to a 10 per cent reduction on 1923 income, and a 25 per cent reduction on 1924 income.

The change in the program was made by Secretary Mellon, special assistant on tax matters, and the Finance committee.

The second reason was that the Treasury was to be able to pay the interest on the war debt, and if the controls should assume that each year should be audited and approved, that would take another eight months, withholding it from the taxpayers for a year after the passage of the revenue act.

May Delay Tax Measure

Mr. Grafton plans to push the refund plan through the building up of a staff of extra employees and increase the cost of administration.

The resolution must originate in the House, and the matter will be before the House committee at a meeting tomorrow.

Emergency action will be taken in the House under a special rule, only about thirty members are expected to vote against the plan when it came up in connection with the tax bill and no difficulty is anticipated in connection with the Senate. Sentiment in the Senate is understood to be such that the bill can be disposed of there without delay.

If the reduction on the tax year's income is provided for in this manner, it may become more permanent legislation. Many of the members of the House plan for some time to have the retroactive tax bill provided for separately, so that the permanent tax bill will become an issue in the presidential campaign, and the public will have after making the plan a issue, congress would be expected to reduce surpluses to the Mellon program.

In case congress adjourns without finally disposing of the tax bill, the measure will be placed on the calendar for the December session. If it is taken during the winter, would lose its position on 1923, and the bill would be reintroduced in the following year.

1923 INCOME TAX TO BE CUT FOR PAYMENT IN 1924

G. O. P. Leaders Agree on Emergency Action.

BY GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, D. C., March 6.—(Special.)—Administration leaders in congress have decided to reduce income tax for 1923 25 per cent at once, reducing the rate to 10 per cent on income over $10,000. The bill, the last day for filing returns on 1923 incomes, has been agreed to by house and senate leaders. It will then be necessary to rush action on the bill to the general tax reduction.

House and Senate in Accord.

The agreement for such a resolution was reached following conferences between Representative Green (Rep., Wis.), chairman of the ways and means committee, and Senator Smoot (Rep., Utah), chairman of the senate finance committee. The measure would reduce the 1923 income tax rate to 10 per cent on income over $10,000.

The change in the program was suggested by Secretary Mellon, who sent a special assistant on tax matters, W. Greer, to Chairman Green. He presented two urgent reasons why the provision should be lifted out of the revenue bill and passed in the form of a joint resolution immediately.

Taxpayers Holding Back.

The first was that the treasury is not getting in any money on this year's taxes. Heretofore a large proportion of the amount due March 15 has been received. But now, it appears, the taxpayers have an idea that something will be done to reduce the amount of the full amount due that time and are holding off. He is seriously interfering with the treasury's financing operations.

The second reason was that it would take the treasury six to eight months to audit the returns and make the refunds, and if the controller general should assume that each refund had been audited and approved by him, it would take another six to eight months, withholding the money from the taxpayers for a year or more after the passage of the revenue bill.

Mellon His Office Force.

Moreover, the refund plan would necessitate the building up of a large staff of extra employees and greatly increase the cost of administering the law.

The resolution must originate in the house. Mr. Green plans to bring the matter up before the house ways and means committee at a meeting tomorrow. Emergency action will be sought in the house when a majority of the house voted against the proposition. When it came up in connection with the tax bill and no difficulty is anticipated in connection with a separate resolution, settlement in the senate also is understood to be such that the resolution can be disposed of there without delay.

May Delay Tax Measure.

If the reduction on the taxes on last year's income is provided for in this manner, it may become more difficult to enact permanent tax legislation at this session. Many of the supporters of the Mellon plan for some time have urged that the retroactive tax reduction be provided for separately and that the permanent tax bill be held up until next winter's session. By delaying action in the senate on the permanent tax bill, the theory is that the tax bill will become an issue in the presidential campaign, and if the Republicans win after making the Mellon plan an issue, congress would be expected to reduce surtaxes to the level of the Mellon program.

In case congress adjourns in June without finally disposing of the permanent tax bill the measure will retain its place on the calendar for action at the December session. If no action is taken during the winter, the bill would lose its position on March 4, 1924, and the bill would have to be reintroduced in the following session.

LONDON, March 7.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Tangier cables this morning that the Rifians broke through the Spanish lines at Tizi Azoua and Laabid Mair, capturing five convicts and 400 prisoners. They brought down four Spanish planes. They have reached a point three miles from Nador.

Kaid Ali Ben Amor, commanding the Rifians, lived for some time in America, whence he returned a year ago. All available troops in Algeria have been dispatched to Melilla, also troops from other Spanish ports. The Rifians are approaching the town of Melilla, causing great damage and heavy casualties. The out-attacks are reported in flames.

HUSBAND ADMITS TAKING CHECK FROM CANDLER

Wife Tells of Attack in Stateroom.

Decatur, Ga., March 6.—Admission on the witness stand by Clyde K. Byfield that he had received a check for $25,000 signed by Walter T. Candler of Atlanta "about ten minutes" after he had charged Candler with having attacked Mrs. Byfield, was the outstanding development in the trial here today of the $100,000 damage suit brought against Candler by Mrs. Byfield.

Byfield also admitted that he signed a paper exonerating Candler from all blame, but that his signature was secured because he "was afraid that Candler's friends were about to attack him."

Attack Is Alleged.

The suits grew out of an alleged attack upon Mrs. Byfield by Candler, who is the eldest son of Asa G. Candler Sr., Atlanta soft drink king, in Mrs. Byfield's stateroom on board the steamship Bermuda on July 17, 1922, resulting in the defendant giving Byfield a check for $25,000 to "hush his mouth for the time being," according to evidence introduced. The Byfield's were Candler's guests.

In Paris, France, Candler, after securing a signed statement from Byfield "exonerating" him, substituted the check for a cash payment of $2,000 and a note for $20,000, on which he ordered the payment stopped. Candler on his return to America from France, brought suit against Byfield for the recovery of the note, and Mrs. Byfield followed with a suit against Candler.

Mrs. Byfield, judged recently as being the most beautiful woman in Atlanta, testified she had separated from her husband last June, and when asked whether she expected to return to him, she replied she "hardly thought so."

Mrs. Byfield testified that on the last night out a champagne dinner was given and that at 2:30 o'clock in the morning she retired.

Candler Enters Stateroom.

A little later, she said, Candler entered her stateroom and "placed his hands on my shoulders. He would not leave the room when I ordered him to," the witness continued. When her husband came in he engaged in a fight with Candler and struck her, she said.

Byfield testified that he jumped on Candler when he found him in his wife's room. "Then I went wild and jumped on my wife," he said.

On cross-examination he denied he had attempted to "blackmail" Candler. "My mind was in a brainstorm," the witness exclaimed in answer to a question as to how soon he had accepted the check.

"You took the check inside of ten minutes after the alleged attack, didn't you?" he was asked.

"I sized the situation up," Byfield answered. "My wife and business were ruined, so after some persuasion I accepted the check."

HE'S 'BOOTLEGGER TO CONGRESSMAN' BUT GOES TO JAIL

Washington, D. C., March 6.—(Special.)—To furnish liquor to a member of congress is no ground for immunity—not these days.

This was demonstrated forcibly today when Ben Dorsey, house office building employe, was arraigned for illegal possession of liquor. He was caught last night with a half gallon jar of moonshine, he protested vehemently against going to the police station.

"This liquor is for a congressman from Tennessee," he said. "You can't arrest me or you will get into trouble." But the officers arrested him.

"Twenty-five dollars fine or fifteen days in jail," said the judge, and the congressman is still thirsty, because Dorsey went to jail.

TWO MEMBERS OF CONSTABULARY GET $200 FINES

"Citizens need protection from men of your type," said Judge Robert Genzel in the Shakespeare avenue court yesterday in imposing $200 fines upon two members of the "Department of Constabulary" found carrying guns, stars, and flashlights. Alex G. Holt, 2707 North Francisco avenue, and Henry Golland of 2504 Thomas street, the defendants, exhibited permits to carry guns issued by Justice of the Peace Unger of Bremen. They said they were out on the streets to protect citizens and aid police diver squads when arrested on disorderly conduct charges.

BONUS WINS IN HOUSE BODY BY VOTE OF 16 TO 4

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., March 6.—(Special.)—By a vote of 16 to 4 the House committee on ways and means today recorded itself as favorable to the passage of a bill at this session providing some form of bonus compensation for veterans of the world war. A meeting tomorrow work will be begun on the measure to be reported for house action. Today's discussion, riotous at times, indicates it will take the committee several days to reach an agreement on a measure satisfactory to the majority.

The session of the committee began with an orderly interchange of views as to the character of a bonus bill that should be reported. It had not proceeded very far before Representative Treadway (Rep., Mass.), anti-bonus, and Representative Crowther (Rep., N. Y.), a pro-bonus advocate, became embroiled in spirited colloquy.

First Fight Barely Averted.
Charges of bad faith were hurled back and forth, both members becoming excited. Finally they leaped to their feet and a personal encounter seemed imminent. Representative Bacharach (Rep., N. J.) stepped between the disputants, counseled moderation, and Mr. Treadway and Mr. Crowther calmed down and returned to their seats.

There is considerable bad feeling among members of the committee on the question of bonus legislation. In the public hearings this week and in the executive session of today charges were aired that the advocates of a bonus are playing politics, without regard to the effect of such legislation on the public treasury.

Advocates of bonus payments insist they are animated solely by a desire to discharge a debt due to the ex-service men.

Voted Against Bonus.

The four members of the committee who today voted against reporting a bonus bill were Representatives Treadway (Mass.), Mills (N. T.), and Tilton (Conn.), Republicans, and Collier (Miss.), Democrat.

House leaders admit that sentiment among members of the committee is crystallizing around a bill that will carry a cash provision as well as authority for endowment insurance. Fear is expressed that a bill containing additional provisions for home aid and vocational education would add too much to the administrative cost of any bonus bill that might be passed.

Would Limit Cash Payments.
He expressed the opinion that it might be possible, without a serious drain on the treasury, to provide payments of cash up to a maximum of $50, but he is opposed to authorizations of $100 for home service and $225 for foreign service, as proposed in the Jeffers bill.

ATTACK JAILS HER ANEW.

Miss Jessie Williams was sent to the Bridge for fifteen days by Judge Edgar yesterday for attacking Mrs. Thelma Wright, an assistant matron at the county jail.

CITIZENS' BODY TO INVESTIGATE GARMENT STRIKE

A "citizens' committee" of fifty called together at Hotel Morrison by the Chicago Church federation, pledged itself yesterday noon to make an impartial survey of the strike of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union, now in progress.

Father Frederic Seidenburg, dean of the sociology department of Loyola university, was appointed chairman of the committee, and Walter R. Mee, executive secretary of the church federation, is secretary.

A subcommittee, in charge of an investigation of strike conditions and of a conference with city officials, consists of the following: Father Seidenburg, Mrs. R. F. Langworth, vice president of the Women's City club; Mrs. B. Frank Brown, chairman of the women in industry committee of the Illinois League of Women Voters; Dean Thomas F. Holgate of Northwestern university; Mrs. Abe Simon, president of the conference of Jewish women's organizations, and Mrs. George M. Mathes, director of the woman's department of the Anti-Saloon league.

"HOW TO FAIL" HIS TOPIC.
Dr. Joseph E. Tilton, president of Lombard college, Galesburg, Ill., will speak at "How to Fail" before the Friday luncheon forum at the Central Y. N. C. A. today.

THREE INDICTED HEREAS REDMOND SHOP OPERATORS

See Collapse of Other Firms Soon.

George F. Redmond, Boston's ex-walter, who in five years shot upwards to enormous wealth on a chain of bucket shops that finally snapped under pressure of federal investigation, last night was under a triple fire.

The Cook county grand jury indicted three of his local representatives for larceny, embezzlement, and on game within twenty hours after the office at 185 West Jackson boulevard was closed.

In Boston a federal grand jury began investigation with promises from prosecutors that there would be sufficient evidence to indict Redmond himself.

U. S. Jury Probe Here?

And in Chicago Harry Hamilton, assistant United States attorney, was preparing to go before the local federal jury with additional evidence.

Simultaneously Redmond's own allies branded as bunk their chief's statement that he would make good to his customers this time, just as he made good in paying off a run totalling $4,000,000 in 1921 and another of $3,000,000 last summer.

"We could not even make good our current debts," said J. R. Lamont, president of G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., the firm name of the ex-walter's fifteen offices. "Receivership has been imminent for some time."

As more details of Redmond's romantic flight to wealth and his failure to attain the one thing he really wanted—a special position—became known, it also was revealed that the collapse is likely to drag in at least half a dozen other houses.

Robert Lewis, acting postal inspector here, said he had information that twenty bucket shops now were operating in the loop and that several were affiliated with Redmond. Withington & Co., a Boston ally, silently closed yesterday, under federal order. And George Burmeister of the Chicago Board of Trade made this statement:

Seek Smaller Links.

"Redmond's chain had many smaller links in the nature of associated houses. At least one of these probably will fall within a few days. It now is scurrying about trying to meet its debts. The public can safeguard itself easily by remembering two rules: When a telephone salesman from a firm you never heard of calls you and tries to sell stock, it's 1,000 to 1 it's a bucket shop. Deal only with recognized members of the recognized stock exchanges and you are sure of an honest deal."

Redmond's romance last night was found to have been directly responsible for his failure, for it has cost the head of the firm several millions in the past year, it was found.

Not satisfied with approximately $25,000,000 said to have come in from customers who tried to buck his game, Redmond made the mistake of trying to back the games of others, and got caught.

Generally he never tried to collect money due from a man who had been strong for a good initial investment, but Redmond became so financially pinched that he hired a collection agency. The customers were willing to lose and keep quiet, but they wouldn't be sued. They sued back, and these suits eventually reached official ears and brought the collapse.

Sought "Outside" Victims.

Again, Redmond originally never permitted an office in any city to hook victims in that city. The Baltimore office, for example, had most of its customers in other southern cities. Thus a man stung had to travel to another city to make a complaint and usually didn't bother to do it.

The three indicted in Chicago were John C. Lewis, local manager; A. D. McCallum and Charles Vrooman, salesmen. The testimony was that Vrooman sold Mrs. Josephine Robertson, 4718 Bernard street, $2,000 worth of Transcontinental Oil.

SENTIMENT GROWS FOR SANE SUBSTITUTE FOR VOLSTEAD ACT

Washington, D. C., March 6.—[Special.]—Public sentiment throughout the country in favor of sane prohibition legislation will be enlisted in the support of the first concerted effort in congress to liberalize the provisions of the Volstead law by its amendment to permit the manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent beer, in the opinion of Capt. W. H. Stayton, head of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

The introduction of identical bills to that end in the house yesterday by fifty-eight congressmen from widely scattered sections is symptomatic of the change of sentiment already created by four years' experience with Volsteadism. Stayton said, and is indicative of a trend that is destined to receive still stronger support in quarters earlier aligned with the extreme prohibitionist movement.

"Friends of true reform in liquor legislation are greatly encouraged by the current drift of public opinion, of which the concerted move against the financial provisions of the Volstead act in the house yesterday was a reflex," said Capt. Stayton.

FINANCING FOR LA SALLE PLANS FRETS ALDERMEN

Large Public Benefit Stirs Discussion.

The widening and boulevarding of La Salle street from Randolph street to Lincoln park caused the council finance committee considerable worry yesterday afternoon.

If the street is widened only to Ohio street, President Sloan of the board of local improvements estimates that the public benefit will be perhaps $2,500,000 or $3,000,000, but if it is widened all the way the figure will be $5,500,000. The board will be ready in sixty days to have a public hearing on the character and extent of the improvement. The difficulty arises from the fact that the corporate fund cannot stand the expense of the large public benefit, in the opinion of the aldermen.

May Affect City's Paper.

"The South Water street improvement is getting well under way," explained Chairman Woodhull of the committee. "If it is necessary to have a bond issue of say $10,000,000 for that, we will not have bond power enough to provide for La Salle street. Then what will happen?"

"The public benefit will be a judgment against the city," replied Mr. Sloan.

"That will decrease the value of our special assessment paper," commented Chairman Woodhull. "How much, in your opinion, will a judgment of $5,500,000 affect the city's paper?"

"That would knock it down a couple of points," answered Mr. Sloan.

Sloan Balks at Delay.

Some one suggested that the La Salle street improvement be deferred for a year.

"No," said Mr. Sloan, "that won't do. The voters have approved a bond issue for a bridge over the river at La Salle street. When that is built the people will insist that the street be improved and widened. Let us go ahead with our planning. It will be some time before the city is called upon to pay the public benefit."

The committee tentatively gave its permission to go ahead.

CROWE SUING
FOR BACK TAXES

Among over fifty suits filed yesterday by State's Attorney Crowe against delinquent personal property taxpayers were two suits against C. R. Herschberger.

Charles Bert Herschberger, back in the '90's was a famous athlete at the University of Chicago. He played half back on the university football teams of '95, '96, '97, and '98, defeated Michigan twice by his stellar kicking, and was the first representative of a western college to be picked on an all American team.

"I'LL SHOW HER I WANT DIVORCE," BREWSTER SAYS

Defies Wife; Joins Life with Movie Love.

Morrissey, N. J., March 6.—[Special.]—Through the unwitting instrumentality of Mrs. Eleanor V. Brewster the storm tossed romance of her husband, Eugene V. Brewster, millionaire publisher, and Miss Corine Palmer, Titan haired screen beauty, is on smooth seas again and will run its course in the magnificent New Jersey estate which Brewster purchased for $250,000 as a setting for Miss Palmer's beauty.

"Mrs. Brewster doesn't know it yet, but we owe her a debt of gratitude we never will be able to pay," said Miss Palmer today. "Divorce or no divorce, I never will leave Eugene again, never."

"Mrs. Brewster said her husband didn't want a divorce and hadn't tried to get one, because he didn't want to marry me. Well, we are going to live our answer to that for all the world to see. This is the very happiest day of my life."

While Miss Palmer talked, Brewster stood by her side. Brewster said he would bring suit for divorce on the ground of desertion under the laws of New Jersey as soon as he had lived here long enough to establish a voting residence, which, he declared, would be shortly. In the meantime he extended Mrs. Brewster a public invitation to proceed herself.

"That is my answer to the baseless assertion of my wife that I do not want a divorce and haven't tried to get one," he declared. "As soon as we learned of her statement Miss Palmer and I made immediate arrangements for a meeting."

"We both felt Mrs. Brewster's charges left us no recourse but to order our lives together. We seized the opportunity and you may tell the world that we will never be separated again. As soon as possible I shall file suit for divorce in New Jersey. In the meantime Miss Palmer and I shall move into our new home. Her mother and family will accompany us."

ROUGE ET NOIR.

In the "Other Side" on this page is published an editorial from the Chicago Negro paper, the Defender. The writer has in view, at least speculatively, the uprising of "proscribed and oppressed races of the world" under communist leadership. The inference is that the darker races everywhere, including the blacks in the United States, are to look to bolshevism for deliverance. Let's reason together on that. The Defender is printed in Chicago, where the race for which it is issued has full political rights and use of all the utilities of modern civilization. The Negroes have full use of street cars, public utilities, and schools. They have all the police protection they want and protection from fire. They vote and are represented in legislative bodies. On one occasion they elected a mayor particularly favorable to them.

The whites will not intermarry with them and do not have social relations with them, do not have them to dinner, dance, or theater parties, but for the most part are friendly and amiable. The colored people find employment, most of them live well, some of them are rich, and they have their own society untroubled.

Even in the south, where there are legal discriminations and practical denial of political rights, the majority of Negroes are untroubled in their employment and work. Their ancestors were brought from Africa by the slave. The evil was centuries old, probably as old as man, and dark as were some of the crimes of slavery in America's time, they were only shadows of the brutalities of slavery in other civilizations. The conscience of white moralists and the self-interest of white workmen stopped it.

Africa has been the scene of a good deal of white despotism and cruelty, but the scene of a great deal more dark despotism and cruelty. It is now, in consequence of white intervention, on a higher plane of humanity and protected living than it ever was before. The barbarities committed by powerful blacks upon weaker blacks were beyond any of the cruelties the whites ever inflicted. The ravages of the Arabs were as bad. The black warrior chiefs and the Arabs were the slave suppliers.

In Africa regions where the whites never had touched a human being was as a minnow, in luck to get through a day without being eaten by a bigger fish. The darkest spots conceivable to imagination, to superstitious frenzy, to lusts and appetites were the commonplaces to which human beings were constantly subjected. It was worse than the animal life of the jungle. That was only life feeding on life. The human life had ingenuity enough for torture as a pleasure.

No race native to Africa changed that, neither Arab nor Egyptian nor any other. The pillaging white did, in spite of what he did in Belgian Congo and elsewhere. No educated Negro with a historical perspective will say that his race as yet has attained collectively in any place in which it has been on its own resources the standard of living which it enjoys where it is in contact with white civilization as in the United States or as in Europe. If that were not true, then Liberia would be receiving Chicago blacks, and it is not. Bolshevism is the enemy of the American society in whose benefits the Negro partakes. If he thinks he could get more benefits by joining the enemies to overturn that society, he is necessarily making the majority of white Americans his own enemies. Even if his ideas of communism are not intended to come to anything, an expression of them causes the white American to look at him with suspicion and resentment. That does the race no good. If these ideas were intended to come to anything they would ruin the race. A social revolution in the United States undertaken by a Russia by Reds and blacks might result in a terror. The whites are ten to one. We have no census of the Reds, but they probably are not one in 10,000.

Then why should any reasonable Negro flirt with the idea of improvements by Red methods? He has everything now here in Chicago, the home of the Defender, except the right of intermarriage and some privileges which in any society with respect to any people go by favor and not by law. Rouge et noir will get nothing but trouble.

SUPREME COURT JUDGES.

The terms of five of the seven state Supreme judges expire this year. Four are Republicans. Judges Dunne, Dunn, Cartwright, and Carter, and one Democrat, Judge Farmer. All are candidates for reelection, with the probable exception of Judge Carter of this district. It is said that he does not care to remain on the bench.

In view of the experience, character and record of the judges, it has been accepted as desirable that they be retained. That is generally agreed. It is sound public policy that this agreement should get recognition from the party leaders. In the case of two of the Republican judges, there will be no Democratic opposition. In the case of Judge Dunn there may be a formal Democratic entry without expectation of success, but nevertheless requiring a campaign.

It is also possible that a Republican will be entered against Judge Farmer, the Democrat. We do not believe that such candidacies serve public good. We believe that it is better that able judges should understand that public sentiment is with them and that a political contest is not required of them. A withdrawal or avoidance of both contests would be advisable.

If Judge Carter does not wish to return we believe that the Republicans of this district would do well to nominate an able young judge of superior or circuit experience. The Democrats will probably endorse the nomination.

DAUGHERTY MUST GO.

Attorney General Daugherty is again reported as about to resign. He should. His stubbornness in an additional indication that he does not appreciate the scruples necessarily a part of the moral equipment of a man fit for the place. The case against Daugherty rests at present on his own statements. It is not made by unproved charges against him but by things he admits and defends.

When Sinclair, Doherty, and Fall were negotiating the oil leases, Daugherty admits he was speculating in Sinclair oil stocks. He says he lost money in the speculation. That does not clean the slate. His intention was to make money. No man sensitive to the requirements of his office would subject himself to such influences. He would not take the risk of having his judgment influenced even against his will or without his consciousness by his desire for money gain.

No man can put his money into a speculation and then pass disinterestedly upon public policies which affect, or might affect, his earnings. Daugherty was in the position of government counsel to Fall, who was making leases of government property, naval oil reserves, from which oil corporations expected to make millions. Government action might affect oil speculation. The effect of oil speculation on the attorney general's mind might make him an unfit adviser. Admit even that he would try to see only the public good. It can't be done.

If he cannot see the propriety of his outspokenness further proves that he ought to get out of the cabinet.

THE PRESIDENT'S NO TO THE PHILIPPINES.

President Coolidge has replied "no yet" to a Filipino request that he support the plea of the islands for independence. He also says that Gen. Wood will remain as governor general, and he urges the islands to cooperate with him and to believe that the purpose of American administration is solely for Filipino good.

If the President is to say "no" to independence, he is entirely logical in saying that a strong American administration should remain. The greatest of evils would be to refuse independence, continue in responsibility, and lose control of administration. Responsibility and control go together. Both must be retained or both surrendered. In our judgment both ought to be given up. The President bases his decision on Filipino welfare. We base ours on American welfare. It may be that some Filipinos do not want independence. They may be wise Filipinos, but we are petitioned by the Filipino legislature for freedom. Officially the islands ask for it. The American congress has promised it. Political parties are pledged to it. A generation of Filipinos have been trained for it under American administration and school teachers.

If we are not ready for freedom now it is because they are temperamentally lacking, and if we assume to change their temperaments we have an eternal job. The President says the world is disturbed. If so, it would be well to shorten our frontiers and lessen our responsibilities. If it is disturbed now, we have no assurance that it ever will be less so, particularly in the far east. We have a protective ten year agreement with Japan. We do not know what will come after that. We only know that we are exposed in the Philippines to possibilities which could not find us defenseless elsewhere. We take these chances without hope of benefit. We do it to protect a people who do not want our protection. They have the human instinct for liberty. We know that for our own good they ought to be given it, but we tell them that for their good they may not have it.

The Other Side

MOSCOW AND THE DARKER RACES.

The rapid change of political conditions throughout the world is day by day bringing the problem of the darker races to the fore as never before in latter-day history. It is quite significant to note at this time that G. Zinovief, the great Russian leader and president of the Third International, has just sent right instructions to the French communists setting before them in pointed language that their prime duty should be to assist among France's black troops the independence of French Africa.

To the student of European politics it is quite clear that France in order to maintain her present position in Europe must rely to a greater degree than ever on the loyalty and valor of her black soldiers. At the same time it is equally true that Russia will be unable to attain the ideal socialist state, surrounded by capitalist nations as she is. The peculiar economic position of the darker races of the world over gives them the power to determine the course of the growing conflict between capitalist imperialism on one hand and the conscious working class movement on the other.

There is nothing humanitarian in the political policies of Europe in Asia or Africa; her interest in the countries of the darker races is to exploit the natural wealth of these people who are without means of self-defense. We are wont to believe that French rule is ideal as far as the darker races are concerned, but more and more it is coming to light that there are many of her darker subjects who have justifiable reasons for complaint, although as yet somehow the discontented elements are inarticulate. France with her several million more blacks than whites gives the former only as much as she is compelled to.

The capitalist nations cannot close their eyes to the fact that the influence from Moscow will be far reaching among the proscribed and oppressed races of the world. It is the natural sequence of the late war and the disclosure to the working people of their inherent strength. Moscow leaders claim to see, free of all doubts, a war cloud hovering over Europe. And whatever nations may initiate the next war Russia knows that she will be drawn in. Thus it is clearly seen that the Soviets are preparing to take advantage of the next European upheaval to propagate world revolution and effect the freedom of the submerged racial groups of the earth.

TASTES DIFFER.

The Rev. Mr. Ham had preached a stirring sermon. An old Negro who had heard him without getting his name mentioned the next day said:

"Yo sho' is a big preacher, but what yo say yo name is?"

My name is the same as the best part of the hog, the preacher answered softly.

A day or two later the old dandy met the preacher and, doffing his hat with a low bow, said:

"Howdy do, Mr. Chittiness?—Honey Grove (Tex.) News."

How to Keep Well.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed, Dr. Evans will not make a diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

THE CURSE OF HEROIN.

D. R. D. HUBBARD of the New York City health department calls on legislatures to prohibit the manufacture, sale, and use of heroin. Where the use of the drug has not been prohibited by law, he calls on persons in charge of hospitals to prohibit its use in the institutions which they are connected. He calls on physicians not to prescribe heroin and not to sanction its use. He calls on the people not to use heroin nor to permit its use on them.

He quotes the American Medical Association as having passed resolutions that heroin should be eliminated from all medical preparations, that it should not be administered, prescribed, or dispensed by physicians, and that its importation, manufacture, and sale should be prohibited.

It is said that somewhere between 70 and 80 per cent of narcotic drug addicts use heroin. Of those who use the drug, only 2 per cent acquired the habit through medical treatment. Its use as a medicine is not great. Physicians have never prescribed it in any great quantities or with any great frequency.

The habit may be contracted from New York City and Chicago are quoted as having requested the hospitals of their cities not to permit the use of heroin on their patients. "It serves no purpose that other agents cannot accomplish as effectively, and without the attendant possibility of danger." More than one-half the hospitals in these cities have complied with the request.

But something more is needed than requests by health commissioners, orders by hospital authorities, and resolutions by medical societies. Ninety-eight per cent of the heroin users are said to have acquired the habit through curiosity, morbidly, or criminal association. The habit is quickly acquired. Its hold is relentless. Of less service than morphine in a medical way, it is far more apt to lead to a habit. It lends itself readily to underground traffic and use.

There seems to be no way to meet the situation except to stop the supply at the source. This means it must not be manufactured. Since its manufacture cannot be controlled, its importation must be stopped. Incidentally, there should be laws against its sale, having it in one's possession, prescribing it, or using it. Laws, to be effective, must be both national and state in character.

RENTING BY THE WEEK.

Chicago, March 4.—(To the Legal Friend of the People.)—How many days would it take to rent a house for a week? I am a housekeeper. Are they in the renter's class, or are they in a class by themselves? They pay their rent by the week and there is no lease, of course.

Where the tenant has exclusive right of access to the premises the relation is ordinarily the typical one of landlord and tenant, and the renting of the premises to apply providing for sixty days' notice. Although there is some authority for a week's notice, the relation can be terminated at the end of any of the recent periods without previous notice.

TRIBUTE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NO BONUS.

Chicago, March 4.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—I would like to know if I am entitled to the Illinois state bonus. If so, please send me proper forms to make application for the bonus. I was in the army on July 26, 1921, and was discharged Sept. 7, 1921, during the war.

No one is not entitled to the state bonus. The law says that a man must have served at least one day before Nov. 11, 1918, and must have seen at least sixty days of service.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

A WASTED SONG.

Beloved, the ancient moon burns in the sky; Fragrant and sweet, the fragrant hours drift by; The nightingale is singing in the dusk— And I would make a song to hear you sigh.

The sea is jeweled like the sultan's crown; The sky is purple as the sultan's gown. The scimitar that in the heavens glows Is flaming like a sword to strike me down.

Beneath your turret window, Love, I stand And tremble as in the forbidden land; Singing my very heart and soul away, Pleading to see the whiteness of your hand.

The night is waning, and the stars grow pale, And silver bands along the heavens trail; The wind is dying and the world is hushed; The song upon my lips is dead and stale. Farewell, Prince of Far Away.

***

OOOH! just listen to Gen. Forbes in yesterday's W. G. N.: "Go to the doctor on your birthday and you'll live to see another birthday." But, Gen. you don't have to go to the doctor on your birthday; somebody always sends for the jolly old doc and he comes on the run. And then he finds you skipping around in the cherry tree, dearie, and he climbs up and gets you and puts you in a basket and ties you with pretty silk ribbons to the knob of the front door. Then he knocks on the door and runs blithely away.

SPRING TOURISTS.

Dick: They're coming! They're coming! Those with the bright green heads; those with the long pointed tails; those that fly like the old war bullet; large ones and small ones. You can hear the whirr of their wings overhead. They're all fed up on the silver rice from the south and now they're stopping for some of the golden corn of the Great Corn Belt. Oh, how I itch to load up the Old Trusty as I look at the well greased barrel, but something says NO! There's a law that was written for you and me and all the fellows who love to hike in God's open spaces. NO! We mustn't—in the spring. We've got to save 'em, boys! They're flying north to nest and bring back those full grown, tender ones next fall. Let's wait—let's wait—some day they'll all be gone.

COME RIGHT ALONG, HANK, SHOW THIS LADY THE PRETTY GOLDFISH.

R. H. L.: The Trib boasted so about its goldfish room yesterday, and I wonder—you're always so up to date on everything—I wonder if the Line hasn't a goldfish room. I have several lovely poems and two or three very funny burles, but I don't think I'll give them up unless I am shown into your goldfish room. Have you one?

SWARTZ ROSE O'GRADY.

THE PROPOSITION.

The PROPOSITION is now that we drink enough 2.75 per cent beer to pay the ex-service men a bonus. A wonderful thought! We remember picking up a boy in the woods just before the armistice who had had both arms and legs torn off by a high explosive. We tried our best to mumble some sort of comfort to him. Ah, had we only been able to pierce the future with beautiful words of cheer we might have spoken. We could have said: "Buddy, old scout, your United States will some time start in drinking 2.75 per cent beer in order to show you how much it appreciates your services; 2.75 per cent is not very strong, Buddy, but a grateful and thirsty country will do its best."

THE HERMEN OF PURDUE.

Uncle Rich: How come Illinois and Chicago are battling to see which one deserves the title of the herman school? It is pathetic what these boys will do to gain recognition. Why, down here at Purdue there are three men who do nothing all day long but bite iron riders into little bits, crush them with their hands and holding them in their bodies to melt 'em for the workers at the forge. There are also five other lads whose duty it is to push the bleachers on Stuart field into their proper position before the games. But then, you ought to see the hermen of Purdue. The ones mentioned are just the stink of the school.

FURDUS MAN.

WE HAVE intended for weeks to give an extract or two from Tom Boyd's great soldier story, "Through the Wheat," but came a day, "Vixen" settled it. She wrote, "Oh, you don't dare print anything from 'Through the Wheat.' You might accidentally print that part on page 43 about the Y secretary. You were one, two." All right, that's the very first we'll print.

The place was crowded with soldiers, and many of them were drinking from thick mugs. Hicks edged toward the counter and asked for a drink. The Y. M. C. A. man filled a mug with hot, thick chocolate. It was the most pleasant sight Hicks had seen in months. He reached for it and was about to drink when something in the man's eyes made him hesitate.

"Well, we don't give this chocolate away!" said the man, turning up a corner of his long, sallow face.

"How much is it?"

"It's half a franc, that's what it is." Hicks was about to put down the mug of chocolate, when a soldier from the First Regular division stepped forward and offered him the money, and then faced the man behind the counter.

"You're a fine dirty slacker, you are. These men have been out in the trenches for heaven knows how long, and they come back dazed, tired and hungry, and you refuse to give them a glass of your skimmed chocolate."

"Oh, never mind," said Hicks. "You know the kind he is. Why talk to him?"

He went back to the bank house, found his bed, and crawled into it, not stopping to undress.

LITTLE SUNBEAM SHAKES HER RATTLE.

R. H. L.: Has Marian ever really known God's great outdoors? Has she ever cooked her "share" over a pactor-burn fire in the hills or battled mosquitoes on the banks of the Gila? Does she know the land coyotes, jack rabbits, and horned toads, or that equally inspiring land of lakes, pines, and snow capped peaks? Or is she an outdoor person of the forest preserve, sand dune, bridge path type?

I haven't tasted a hot tamale, killed a rattler, or loved a horse since the Old Man sent me back here to add a few capital letters to my name, but I can't get a kick out of these dress parade outdoor sports.

"IF WE go to a penitentiary and study the most anti-social criminals," said Doornay yesterday, "we find that the average of mental capacity is as high as it is among successful merchants or highly paid column editors." You are certainly giving us the rawberry, Doc. Gosh! we had hoped that the strings on those things had come untied and the rawberries had all spilled out.

IT BEGINS TO LOOK DARK FOR LOUP.

R. H. L.: So Loup Garou takes all women, and the outdoor girl in particular, does he? Calls us sinners, huh? Thinks we're the weaker sex, eh? Beh! I can outwalk him, outdance him, and damn if I can't outtalk him any day. And I'd give my right eye to see him on a horse. Yours in righteous indignation, PAPHROSA.

FEDERAL REVENUE POSSIBILITIES IN BEER.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 4.—I was associated with the Schlitz brewing business for many years and am personally well acquainted with some of the men in the Guinness organization.

Guinness owns a large brewing establishment in Dublin—the plant is owned by the Earl of Kinnear, Lord Rossmore, and Mr. Guinness, Lord Iveagh.

Lord Iveagh, his oldest and youngest son are in politics and the second son and a Mr. Sutton manage the business.

Before the war the net profits of the Guinness company were $7,500,000—last year the profits were $7,571,000.

A can of beer used to cost 1 penny—that's when Guinness made $7,500,000. Like other great money makers, the gentlemen engaged in business on the other side don't want to give up everything they own in the form of tax.

They raised the price of a can of beer to 1 penny, then 4 pence, and finally 6 pence. That had to be done because of the excise and license duties which attach to stout, ale, beer, etc. I believe there isn't a more uniform tax levy made anywhere in the world.

Some months ago I understood that the Guinness company had collected $2,000,000 in this fashion. I didn't want to make a rash estimate, so stated that probably $500,000,000 could be raised through a beer bill. That's all wrong. I am inclined to think possibly $1,000,000,000 could be raised that way and we should have in addition a contented people.

If one brewery in Dublin can work for the imperial treasury and make profits of $7,500,000, out of which over $7,000,000 went to the imperial treasury, what could four or five brewing establishments do for the government in Greater New York?

Unless they raise money in this fashion or by some other method not now at hand, it is certain that as we need money it will come out of incomes and inheritance, and for any of us who have money it is not unwise now to say these tax measures going on in inheritance, incomes, etc., may be of a confiscatory nature.

A statement like this certainly shows that the tollers of Great Britain want beer, ale, or stout, and are willing to pay liberally in taxes to get it. After all they are furnishing this vast sum, which is 1921 worth have built five modern British battle cruisers—the more money than the entire British steel industry paid to the imperial treasury.

Can you not help them and also get the aid of the public in this matter? C. R.

SMALL POLITICS.

Chicago, March 1.—Why does Paul coerce and intimidate the public, especially the poor laboring class of workers in the parks, sending men around molesting and threatening those workers who, when they do their day's work for barely a living wage, should be allowed the liberty of their own will and conscience at least and not be compelled to give up the alcoholic liquor habit to him?

Is this not slavery and persecution right in our midst when we are supposed to countenance freedom and liberty instead of shackles of the past? If these people must tell their lives away for a mere pittance the millions of thieves of the present should not be allowed to enter and steal the liberty of the people in this matter? C. R.

ON DOG LOVING.

Chicago, March 1.—Mrs. F. W. M. wishes to know how a woman who has a dog gets a husband. I got mine because he loved me. We have been married over twenty years and I believe he still loves me. We have a dog and we love it and don't care a cent what any one thinks about it. I wish some of the dog haters could read Senator Yett's "Tribute to a Dog."

When Mrs. F. W. M. is looking for an apartment and is admitted, though she is a dog lover, to the apartment, let me tell her to remember that she is there to help the apartment, not to make it in other people's business. No person need be ashamed because they love a dog.

THE PERIL OF IRRITATION.

Chicago, March 4.—Bully for Tim Tansum. In today's issue you gave Wheeler and his ilk a solar plexus good and proper in your concise and convincing editorial on beer and the boma.

Nothing, I am sure, would please this disgruntled nation so much as to see your ideas adopted.

If the governing class and the fanatics of all kinds do not change their tune and "light" upon the masses there will likely be a change of government or so.

CHANGES IN FORD BILL FOR SHOALS FORCED ON HOUSE

Amendments Pour In on McKenzie Bill.

Washington, D. C., March 6.—Close general debate in the house on Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals today opened the way for a flood of amendments as consideration of the bill was resumed. The amendments, which were offered by section, were by section.

A variety of proposals to make changes in the terms of the proposed contract were submitted, with representatives indicating that many would be offered tomorrow, when consideration of the McKenzie measure resumed. None of the amendments offered today was put to a vote.

Fifty Year Lease Advocated.
Those seeking to amend the bill would place the Detroit corporation under jurisdiction of the federal water power act and limit its term to fifty years instead of 100 years and the lease binding not only on the corporation but also on the successors of the corporation.

Representative also would have specified that the power should be generated by the federal government and that this be made available to the state of Alabama. The amendment also provided that the federal government should guarantee the manufacture of fertilizer as to the manufacture of fertilizer be required.

As the reading of the bill, by section, had started, Representative Burton (Rep., O.) offered amendments which specified that the corporation to be organized by Ford should be controlled by him. He withdrew it and offered a second amendment which would place the federal manufacturer under the water power act and limit the lease to fifty years.

Ford Will Not Dodge.
Representative Begg (Rep., O.) proposed a specification that Ford forfeit the entire contract should he fail to produce more than 40,000 tons of fertilizer annually. He asked Mr. McKenzie (Rep., Ill.) if he would accept the amendment.

The author of the bill replied that he did not believe the proposed change was necessary, as the military committee made every effort to report a measure that "would be binding," but, however, that he had no special objection, as he knew Mr. Ford not want to dodge responsibility.

Representative Madden (Rep., Ill.) introduced an amendment to place in the bill the language used in the first submitted two years ago regarding acceptance on the part of Mr. Ford.

Representative Williams (Rep., Ill.) proposed an amendment which would relieve any ambiguity in the present language "relative to the production of fertilizer."

Mr. Ford's offer would be made binding only to the corporation to be organized but also on the manufacturer himself under an amendment proposed by Representative Williams (Rep., Ill.).

Debate Precedes Amendments.
The discussion today began shortly after the house convened at noon. It lasted more than three hours before the amendments were taken up. Representative Burton (Rep., O.) led off for those opposing the McKenzie bill.

Following his speech Representative Burton (Rep., O.) introduced a resolution (Rep. Insurgent, N. Y.) which was a bitter personal attack on Ford, charging that acceptance of his offer would amount to "tearing down the American flag and putting the dollar in its place."

LOVE AT SIGHT THEORY IS GIVEN BLOW BY SAVANT

Young man, have you unconsciously drawn up a set of specifications for your future spouse? In pooh-poohing the love-at-first-sight dogma yesterday Prof. Howard R. Mayberry of the University of Chicago's psychology department said that every man does. And the women, too, for that matter.

"A man falls in love with a woman before he sees her," declared the professor. "He has a mental picture of the woman he would like to marry. She is his imaginary ideal, acquired from novels, movies, and what not. Some day, perhaps, he meets the woman who corresponds to his set of specifications, and he thinks he has fallen in love at first sight."

One other thought: Men who associate with lots of beautiful women are less vulnerable than the shy ones, Prof. Mayberry said. The man who is not accustomed to coming into contact with women is likely to fall in love with the first pretty face he encounters.

GAR KILLS MAN AGED 70.
Aunt Ester, 70 years old, was found asphyxiated yesterday by members of his family in the bathroom of his home at 420 Sullivan street. It is believed he committed suicide.

Misses' Silk Frocks Accent Simplicity of Line and Detail

Unusually Attractive Models Are $37.50

Misses' Coats Are Often Smartest When Fur Collared

SOFT furs, in light shades, are smartest possible reinforcement to the standing collar so prevalent in the season's Coat styles. Especially so when combined with the high colors of the Coats.

Lines are straight, with clever use of cording, braids, and self-inlay trimming in combination with the unusually varied materials.

Two of the Many Styles of Coats Are Pictured

One is green twill cord in badger, graystone, moss, brick-dust, black, with pleated self inlay on the rather wide sleeves, and collar of mink, viatka, gray or beige squirrel, to be worn either standing or flat, $75. First at right.

The other, of twill cord in tan, gray, navy, navy and cocoa, tucked horizontally to resemble cording, is also braided. The standing collar is beige, gray, natural or Russian Fox, $87.50. Second at right.

ENGLISH LABOR PREMIER URGES STERN SABBATH

Scores British Class System's "Honors."

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.)
LONDON, March 6.—A striking plea for greater simplicity in living was made by Prime Minister MacDonald today, speaking at the national free church council meeting at Brighton.

"I know of people enormously rich who are abjectly poor," Mr. MacDonald said. "We are challenged today to apply our Christian faith to social conditions. The problem of poverty must make Christians uncomfortable as long as it exists."

Rich Buy "Honors."
"Today we value men chiefly for their material possessions. When they die we give them honors, and when, for the first time in their life, their name is printed in the 'Honors' list it is the first association they have ever had with anything honorable."

"People who are rich, people who can give great dinners, people who are extravagant, people who are ostentatiously vulgar, and people who have some of the finest names of a gentleman, are too often powerful people in these modern times. This is a materialistic age, and there is no use talking humbug about it."

Wants Strict Sabbath.
Mr. MacDonald made a plea for a revival of the Scotch Sabbath, asserting that the modern Sunday gave men no time for rest. Returning to the question of human values, he said: "We are going too far after superficialities, after gold, after things hanging from the lapel of the coat, after 'right honors,' which occasionally are 'wrong dishonors.' The essence of Christianity is that human quality alone matters. This idea of class is poisonous to the social mind. When we are wiser and more moral, the classes will have disappeared."

Referring to industrial conditions, Mr. MacDonald said: "We are threatened with strikes, lockouts, disputes, and disturbances. How childish it all is! What has happened? Why is there no mutual confidence? Surely these things can be arbitrated."

COUNCIL BUDGET COMMITTEE AGAIN HITS AT 'EXPERTS'

City "experts" again became an object of discussion when the council budget committee met last night with appropriations for the House of Correction as one of the chief items of business.

The argument came when it was revealed that an "expert" had recommended appointment of a business manager for the House of Correction at a $2,800 a year salary and abolishment of the drugstore position, which pays only $1,200 annually.

"If that place needs a business manager, I'll quit," said Richey Graham, superintendent of the institution. "I asked this expert what a manager would do and he said: 'O, just manage a little.'"

Then he said: "You needn't bother about it. I've already picked a man for the job."

Father Finds Runaway Daughter and Cousin

Two weeks' unexplained absence ended yesterday for Grace Wilson, 16, and her cousin, Clara Eldridge, 18, when the former's father, Charles A. Wilson, 1020 South Elmwood avenue, Oak Park, found them in Brainerd, Minn. Miss Eldridge of South Center, Minn., was visiting in the Wilson home fourteen days ago when she and Miss Wilson, taking $50 belonging to the father, disappeared, leaving a note stating, "We are gone for good." The father received word the girls were in Brainerd and last night wired the heart broken mother that he had found them and that they would return today.

RED POLICE SEIZE 56 WORKERS IN MOSCOW BATTLE

Expose Plot Against Soviet Regime.
BY JOHN CLAYTON.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.)
BERLIN, March 6.—[Tribune Radio.]—The arrest of fifty-six workers in the Tarnobski district of Moscow today uncovered a plot with ramifications among the Kharokoff and Don basin workers and the Red army aiming to overthrow the Soviet government.

When the surprised members of the organization resisted the police besieging the building where they had taken refuge. Several on both sides were severely wounded.

Papers seized from the plotters revealed connections with other districts and with the army, resulting in several hundred arrests, particularly among Red army officers.

Rykoff Reported in London.
LONDON, March 6.—[Tribune Radio.]—It is persistently rumored in Russian circles in London that M. Rykoff, Nicolai Lenin's successor as chief of the Soviet government, has either arrived in London or is on his way here. Both the Soviet delegation and the British foreign office, however, deny that they have any knowledge of his coming.

It is stated that he is coming to see Prime Minister MacDonald to discuss preliminaries for an Anglo-Russian conference, which probably will be held early next month, and chiefly to protest against the inclusion in the conference of Poland, Finland, and other border states which formerly were Russian. Mr. Rykoff, it is said, has no objection to their being called in for consultation, but he objects to their being members of the conference.

Bolshevik League Aids.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
SHANGHAI, March 6.—M. Rakitin, the Soviet agent at Harbin, has refused to receive Dr. James Grieg, who was appointed by the league of nations to investigate conditions and arrange for the relief of thousands of Russian refugees in China who have been living on charity, chiefly that of the American Red Cross, for several years.

M. Rakitin asserts that the Russian refugee problem in China is now the business of Soviet Russia. Since the overthrow of the Kerensky régime China has been overrun with Russian refugees, and the support of these people has constituted a tremendous burden upon the foreign settlements here as well as on the Chinese themselves. Shanghai has supported approximately 10,000 refugees for five or six years, and in addition the American Red Cross has devoted considerable funds to relief work for thousands of refugees in Manchuria.

200 National Guard Men Receive Diplomas Tonight

Maj. Gen. George Bell Jr., Brig. Gen. George V. H. Moseley, and Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman are listed as speakers at the graduation banquet.

COOLIDGE WILL SIGN NEW WHEAT TARIFF PROCLAMATION TODAY

Washington, D. C., March 6.—Proclamation of new tariff rates on wheat and wheat products based on the tariff commission's recent inquiry has been delayed until tomorrow by President Coolidge. The President had intended to sign the proclamation today, but was prevented by inability to check the figures presented by the commission.

The proclamation was referred back to the tariff commission before promulgation, and was not returned to the White House in time for signature.

White House officials refused to discuss the new rates to be ordered, but it was understood Mr. Coolidge was prepared to order the full 88 per cent increase allowed under the flexible provisions of the tariff act and a proportional increase in the duty on flour.

North Edgewater Opening

Where Real Money Is Being Made

Several sections of Oliver Salinger's Peterson Nursery tract have been opened to the public this winter and investors and builders have bought the lots as fast as the offerings could be made. In one day, bitter cold, with snow on the ground, over $135,000 in lots were purchased. Last week the fifth Kimball Boulevard Addition was completely sold out—and we must apologize to the many who came after all the lots were sold, as the property we are now about to sell was not platted and we would not show it—but those who waited will be more than repaid—for we offer now

The Sixth Kimball Boulevard Addition

The Cream of North Edgewater Additions

That this property contains business and apartment lots that will double and triple in value, is clearly indicated by facts that you will recognize. Four of Chicago's best business streets and three 100 foot boulevards pass through it. The new Ravenswood "L" runs near the center of it and there are seven other convenient means of transportation. It is bounded by Devon Avenue, Lincoln Avenue, and Peterson Avenue.

Lincoln Avenue Business Frontage

A few years ago Lincoln Avenue frontage at Lincoln Avenue and Belmont was sold at subdivision prices and it is now worth over $7,000 per foot—Lincoln Avenue inside frontage north of Belmont was sold recently at $4,000 per foot and offers of $3,000 per foot have been refused for the corner of Lincoln Avenue and Irving Park Boulevard.

This gives some idea of the future of the Lincoln Avenue frontage we are now offering at low subdivision prices—and the restrictions on apartment lots in this tract assure a large supporting population for the business streets.

These restrictions attract only a very desirable class of people—and buildings of the type that increase values. Both business and apartment lots in this addition will be sold for almost 75% less than lots in the neighborhood are being advertised at—in fact, restricted apartment and residence lots may be had for as low as

$1145 $300 cash—Balance at $15 a month

TWO SUPREME COURT JUSTICES FACING CONTESTS

Situation in This District Still Unsettled.

BY PARKE BROWN.

With the exception of the Seventh district, which includes Chicago, the Illinois Supreme court situation has begun to take definite shape. The terms of five of the present justices expire this year. One of them, Justice Orrin N. Carter, has announced his retirement from the bench. The other four, Justices Warren W. Dunn, William M. Farmer, Frank E. Jones, and James H. Cartwright, are candidates for reelection. Their nominations come to them by the convention route, and all of them are on that score, but contests by candidates from the opposing party are threatened in two instances at the election, which comes on June 2. At this early date neither contest appears serious.

Convention in April.

The Seventh district includes Cook, Will Lake, Du Page, and Kane counties and the district convention has been called for the Garrick theater on the morning of April 22, four days after the state convention. The Cook county delegates, who will be chosen at the county convention on April 14, will be in control. Cook will have 1,355 out of the total of 1,402 delegates.

As the regular organization will be in control of the county meeting and will name the delegates to the judicial convention, the choice of the Republican nominees for the Supreme court rests in its hands.

But up to this time the organization leaders have done nothing more than listen to suggestions. Among the possible candidates mentioned are Thomas Marshall of the Brundage group, Judge Frederick R. De Young, who would be on the Supreme bench now if the proposed new constitution had been adopted, and Judge William H. McCreary, who is backed by a number of prominent attorneys, but who "unfortunately" has been identified in the past with the Deane faction.

Democratic Race Fails.

Justice Dunn, a Republican, was unanimously renominated at the Third district convention at Decatur on Feb. 21. Some of the Democrats, said to have been led by James Meeks of Decatur, put Lawrence Stringer of Lincoln into the race, but it is believed that they acted in the belief that the Small forces would split the Republican strength with a candidate of their own, an effort that was unsuccessful.

The second of the sitting members of the court threatened with opposition is Justice Farmer of Vandalla, a Democrat. The district, in the south-central section of the state, is heavily Democratic, but Republican leaders there are said to have determined to enter the contest for Farmer's seat. Justice Cartwright, Republican, of Oregon, was renominated at the Sixth district convention in Rockford on Wednesday. He is 81 years old and there were early rumors that he would not run again. Last week he surprised many of his supporters by taking the stump for Gov. Len Small. Hitherto Supreme court justices have been extremely chary about entering into political campaigns.

Justice Duncan, Republican, of Marion, is up for renomination at the First district convention at Harrisburg on March 12, and no opposition has made its appearance up to this time.

SUBURBS JOIN CITY IN STUART PORTRAIT DRIVE

Fund Increases as Many Clubs Donate.

Citizens of Chicago are not alone interested in the purchase of the famous Gilbert Stuart portrait of George Washington. The suburbs are also taking a "penney day" was declared in the Glen Ellyn schools of J. Grove Butler, superintendent of schools in the suburb. "I believe the children will be glad to aid in such an enterprise," Mr. Butler said. "When they grow older they will be glad that they were able to help in securing this famous portrait, which will be almost priceless as time goes on."

Thousands of children in Chicago, who have already contributed their pennies to the fund, are now interesting their parents in the project and many women's clubs and other organizations are sending in checks to aid the purchase. The number of children yielding the Art Institute is constantly increasing, and all of them immediately inquire for "The Washington Picture."

Private Schools Also Aid.

The children in the public schools are not the only ones interested, it appears from contributions sent in by pupils in parochial and private schools. Many children, in addition to contributing at school, drop in a penny or a nickel at the Art Institute boxes, when they come to view the portrait.

Contributions from business houses, fraternal organizations, and private citizens continue to come to the Art Institute, The Tribune, and the Herald-Examiner.

With practically each donation is a letter warmly commending the campaign as a patriotic and civic enterprise.

Fund Leaps Upward.

Several sizable contributions were received yesterday. The Zenith Radio corporation sent in $50, half to The Tribune and half to the Herald-Examiner. The Protestant Woman's Service club sent a check for $50 to the Art Institute and numerous schools sent in their returns to the board of education.

The Tribune will acknowledge and turn over to the Art Institute all contributions received and letters may be addressed either to the editor of The Tribune or to Robert B. Harbise, director of the Art Institute. Contributions already received by The Tribune, Herald-Examiner, and Art Institute follow:

PATIENT KILLS SELF.

Frank Wierler, 723 West Madison street, a patient in the municipal tuberculosis sanatorium, killed himself yesterday by slashing his throat with a razor.

JUDGES WRANGLE OVER "FATE" OF DEFIANT CERMAK

Judges of the Circuit court met yesterday to consider what steps should be taken to punish Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board, and his eight Democratic colleagues for their defiant attitude toward an order of the court providing additional "law enforcement" deputies on the staff of Sheriff Hoffman.

That the judges' ire might be visited upon not only Mr. Cermak, who vetoed an appropriation providing salaries for the deputies, but upon the Democrats who aided him in resisting the Republican members' attempt to pass the appropriation over the veto, was indicated after the meeting.

A committee was named to delve into the law governing the situation and it met in a secret conference late yesterday afternoon.

The committee, it was learned, is considering the situation from two angles. One is that they should cite the board members for contempt of court and punish them accordingly. The other angle takes the matter entirely out of their hands. It was argued that the judges in ordering thirty additional deputies had fulfilled their task under the law and were not required to enforce the employment of the men.

Should the committee decide they have no power to proceed against the commissioners it would be necessary for Sheriff Hoffman to commence a mandamus proceeding.

Substrate for Copper treatment by rust in less than two years

This Never Happens to Copper

Avoid the expense and ugliness of rust by using Copper for leaders and gutters, flashings, roofing, cornices and all other exposed metal work. You will hear it said that this or that metal, sold as a substitute for Copper or Brass, is "rust-resistant." That is just the point to remember: while other metals more or less feebly resist rust, Copper and Brass do not rust at all. Increased use of Copper, Brass and Bronze in building construction in the last few years reduced the rust loss in this country by about $60,000,000 in 1923. But home-owners alone are still spending at least $550,000,000 yearly to repair and replace rusted substitute metals. Avoid the burdensome exactions of rust—use Copper, Brass and Bronze.

Copper, Brass and Bronze are cheaper than you pay for them only ONCE.

Piping Dreams Do Come True in Spring

By Corinne Love

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The piping dream is much more apt to come true than the pipe one. Braid and wreath and blouse all display the tendency to pipe their edges, and the tailored frock, too, joins the chorus favoring this popular finish. Braid is another resource of the designer, and appears wherever tailored garb is assembled.

One is quite aware that there is nothing in this preliminary statement to startle the most casual observer. Both braid and pipings have a habit of coming out every spring. If they didn't, one would feel as outraged as if the crochets failed in their customary April chores.

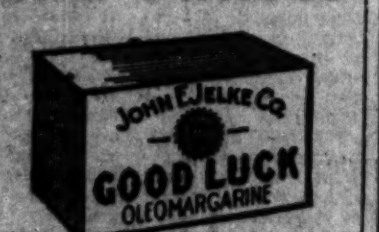

This year, however, they really do have an original way of dealing with the old themes. In witness whereof we call your attention to this smart rust colored tulle frock set off with soutache braid in tone somewhat deeper than the gown itself. What could be more original and yet more absolutely in conformity with all that a tailored frock should express than the manner in which the braid slopes from a spare neck line and then wheels off to the right, from which point it dives down the side of the skirt. The scarf collar is, as you see, edged also with soutache.

Two buttons mark the short career of braid at the waist line, and these are balanced on the other by a pocket. Pockets, one may add, are featured in a variety of ways this year, and when the Paris collection of spring creations reaches us we are promised still further pocket surprises.

The Tribune will pay $1 for each child's saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unsolicited contributions. Please write on one side of the paper. Address Bright Sayings to Gladys Bee, Tribune, Chicago.

My niece dailies going to bed at an early hour, so when it is her bed time her mother spells the words to the maid, telling her to put Helen to bed. I dropped in one evening to repeat some neighborhood news about a child in the neighborhood and in Helen's presence I spelled the child's name instead of pronouncing it—when she promptly said: "Now, auntie, don't you spell me to bed." Mrs. W. O. H.

Dwight was told he must always be a little gentleman, but his patience was often sorely tried by Billy, who came frequently to play. Billy was spoiled and always wanted his way.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

Turkish Coffee and Sweet Peppers.
BY JANE EDDINGTON.
More than one thing in cookery I learned by visiting the eating place of the intelligent Bulgarian whom my friend and others of his patrons affectionately call "Daskall," which means teacher. In his own country this Dimitrie S. was that. He not only makes his chicken soups a bit sour with lemon, and serves Bulgarian or sour milk, but he has no deserts on his menu, unless you call a quite sweet coffee, the Turkish sort, a desert, and he serves no butter with the bread. You could not get scurvy living on such a diet, nor suffer any of the evils that come from an excess of sweets.

He makes the Turkish coffee instantly before it is served, and in one of those small hour glass shaped brass pots with a long handle which the Turkish cooks use. For each small cup he allows one teaspoon of freshly ground coffee, one teaspoon of sugar, and about four tablepoons of boiling water. The boiling water is poured on the coffee and sugar, and it is boiled up three times, then, after a moment of settling, it is poured into the cups, forming a light brown foam and having a taste like freshly roasted coffee. Of course there will be a fine coffee mud in the bottom of the cup when you are through.

Another thing Daskall does it to use sweet green peppers by the crate. He boils these whole, slices them, seeds and all, and, among other ways of using them, combines them with raw tomato and a little chopped lettuce in a salad with a dressing of oil and vinegar. Should you like your stew hotter, at his tables there stands a little glass of dry and unspiced chili pepper which you may strew over it.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
H. C. P. AND B. F. M.: FIVE FEET, weigh 158, and 20 years? That is about right weight. I don't think you would want to put on any more.

QUERY: YES, IT IS TRUE THAT the tongue must be kept clean in order to protect teeth. It often collects tartar and bacteria near the roots. Some people keep a tooth brush and use a tooth powder for cleansing the tongue. There are scrapers sold for this purpose. Fruit acids are especially serviceable in cleansing the tongue, and a weak solution of vinegar is recommended.

UNFORTUNATELY: THE FEET must be bathed daily. In fact, there is no rule of beauty as fastidious as that which calls for the daily bath. Put on fresh stockings and underwear daily if you have to have a washing every night. If there is the slightest odor of perspiration about you, this is absolutely essential. Send a. a. e. for excellent formula to prevent excessive perspiration.

JOB ADVENTURER STILL CLINGS TO SACRED SAWBUCK

The experience of the young stranger who came to Chicago about a week ago in search of employment very day to day, but became more interesting. He is still hanging on to the $10 given him by The Tribune when he wrote telling of his predicament. Here are more of his experiences and difficulties.

Some time ago, when I first arrived in Chicago, I filed an application at the postoffice for a position as a clerk. About Monday or Tuesday, I received an "admission card," requesting me to report on Feb. 28 at the federal building for examination. A photograph of the applicant, taken within the last two years, was to be pasted on the back of the card, and as the applicants filed into the examination room a young man verified these pictures. At a desk, further along, our applications were hunted up and found a. b. we were requested to sit at one of the hundred or more desks in the room until the examination was ready to begin.

Preliminary Instructions. At about 9:30, or as soon as every applicant was taken care of, blotters were issued to us, upon which were printed a caution not to attempt to copy from work of any other competitor, nor to permit any competitor to copy from our work, or look over sheets in our possession. Evidence of copying or collusion in the examination would result in cancellation of the applicant's papers and in debarring the applicant from future examinations.

After giving out a preliminary folder, the examination began. We were to be allowed two hours to complete exercises consisting of spelling, penmanship—which constituted copying from copy—letter writing and examples in arithmetic. A grade of 70 per cent perfect is the lowest considered in declaring "eligibles." Twenty words, which were pronounced by the instructor, comprised the spelling lesson.

On the second page we were tested in our ability to copy from copy. In this, we were given credits for penmanship and accuracy in placing necessary punctuation and in reproducing every word exactly as in the copy.

Letter Writing Test. The third feature of the examination was a test in letter writing. We were requested to write the body of a letter on either one of the two subjects: "What Occupation Do You Wish to Follow and Why?" and "Reasons Why Buildings Should Have Fire Escapes." Spelling, capitalization, punctuation, syntax, style and treatment of the subject, were to be considered in awarding credits for this exercise.

In arithmetic, the fourth and final section of the examination, there were twenty simple problems. Here are a few of them.

I was informed by Mr. Demorest that thousands of people in the city who may be in search of positions such as the above, are entirely ignorant of this opportunity.

There are 15,000 employees in the Chicago Postal Service and 2,490 in the Sixth District of the Railway Mail Service, the headquarters of which are located in this city.

Employees Increase. The 1923 figures, which are the latest compiled, show that the total civil service employees of the United States numbered 869,563. In 1918, when employment conditions were at a peak, 817,760 were on the federal pay roll. I spent the entire afternoon trying to locate at one of the department stores, but with no success.

I have enough change for breakfast in the morning and don't think that I will encounter much difficulty in finishing up the week with that $10.00 bill still intact.

However, here's knocking on wood.

Man and Wife Arrested as Krutter Murder Aids

Joseph Regal, alias Joseph Marvin, and his wife, Margaret, both wanted as accessories to the murder of William C. Krutter, a real estate broker who was shot by Harry Thomas four years ago, were arrested yesterday in Cleveland. Thomas, who has confessed more than 100 burglaries, declared the Regals had aided him in concealing the slaying.

Men and women who enjoy the companionship of their own possessions—who are tired of hotels and furnished apartments—who enjoy the sight of open water and the coolness of a fresh lake breeze—these are the people whom we invite to view the delightfully spacious apartments in the new Aquitania—a beautiful building of the type that has made Park Avenue in New York the choicest apartment center in the world. Chicagoans with a love for the beautiful, the spacious, yet equally attracted by the appealing qualities of a private residence will find the Aquitania to be a fulfillment of their fondest hopes of what a city home should be.

DECLINE IN FRANCHISES HOLDS ATTENTION IN MONEY MARKETS

The New York Times

New York, March 6.—(Special.)—There were several movements of interest on the money markets today. Financial attention was mostly directed to the decline in the rate for the first time since the war, but with the German mark also weakening slightly for the first time in a month.

The day's stock market advanced on a somewhat larger business, gains of one or two points being numerous. Cotton continued the recovery which began last week, but with the opening of the week.

The day's movement on the stock exchange was mostly limited to industrial shares, but the railways also showed considerable activity. Apparently, the higher prices were caused by purchases from speculators lately engaged in selling for an expected decline on the basis of the connection at Washington. When Wall Street recovered its own recovery, thereby presumably overshadowing the attitude of people in general towards the later absurdities of the senate—the stocks had sooner or later to be bought back.

In the day's bond market there was a series of singularly conflicting movements, with large transactions again in the St. Paul securities at rising prices. As a whole it was a market with no uniform tendency.

The decline of the franc was associated with the French bank's weekly statement, published today, which showed an increase of $125,000,000 francs in the net circulation. The total of $6,250,000,000 francs now outstanding compares with a previous maximum of $5,650,000,000 in November, 1923, and with a low post-war record of $1,200,000,000 in March, 1922.

U. S. Steel Opposes Rail

Cut to Pacific Coast

New York, March 6.—Council for the United States Steel Corporation today refused before the interstate commerce commission the testimony of previous witnesses that the corporation favored a reduction of rail freight rates to the Pacific in competition with water rates via the Panama canal. They attacked the testimony of Robert Holt, who appeared last Monday in behalf of the Chicago Association of Commerce and several iron and steel industries in the Chicago district, and argued for the rail rate reduction. With Mr. Holt were several other witnesses, all of whom declared they spoke for subsidiaries of the Steel corporation in the Chicago territory, as well as for other "independent" manufacturers.

LEAN YEAR IN OIL,
BUT STANDARD OF
IND. DOES WELL

BY O. A. MATHER.

Despite the troubles of the petroleum industry last year, the Standard Oil Company of Indiana made comfortable earnings. While the 1923 profits were about $7,800,000 less than in 1922, still they were nearly double the dividends requirements and the company was able to add nearly $17,000,000 to its surplus.

While prices of both crude oil and refined petroleum products were sharply lower, the Standard Oil company escaped the brunt of the price fall because its chief interest is in refining rather than in producing oil. The company's earnings were more than $14,000,000, the chief item being an increase in dividends in the Standard Oil Refining Company.

Net profits for 1923, after charges and taxes, were $4,538,439, equivalent to 14.8 cents a share. The company's earnings were $14,000,000, the chief item being an increase in dividends in the Standard Oil Refining Company.

Impending government financing next week is reflected in the weekly report of the federal reserve system, the chief features being a decline in loans and an increase in government securities.

There was little change in reserve position, the ratio of reserves to liabilities standing at 80.5, compared with 80.5 per cent in the preceding week. The federal reserve bank of New York reported an increase in deposits of $1,000,000, while the federal reserve bank of Chicago reported a decrease of $1,000,000.

OATS WEAKNESS BRINGS BREAK IN WHEAT AND CORN

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

When the decidedly bearish sentiment prevailing among grain traders is taken into consideration and the scattered liquidation by longs, the markets gave an excellent account of themselves. Wheat closed unchanged to the lower; corn, off 1/4 cent; oats, 1/2 cent; and rye, 1/2 cent. There was sufficient liquidation early to make a small advance in wheat and corn, with July and September corn selling within 1/2 cent of the best figures of the season, but when only developed liquidation was a sharp decline, corn breaking 1/2 cent from the early high, only to close on a rally of 1/4 cent from the inside price.

Resisting Oats Check Design. Buying of May wheat at 11 1/2 and May corn at 8 1/2 by commission houses on resting orders were instrumental in checking the decline. Trade on the whole was largely of a local character and the market was not very active. There is a decided disposition to keep the closest watch on developments at Washington, and the fear that the McNary-Haugen bill may pass was responsible for some unloading of long grain.

There is more export business doing in Manitoba than is being reported, judging from messages from the seaboard and from Winnipeg. Sales for the day were 300,000 bu., including 40,000 bu. of durum. Flour demand at New York was better, with some Canadian being sold for export to the continent. Few unfavorable crop reports were received from the winter wheat territory. May wheat closed at 11 1/2, 11 1/4; July at 11 1/2, 11 1/4; September at 11 1/2, 11 1/4.

Demand for cash corn was a little slow and No. 4 and No. 5 grades on stock sold at the widest discount under the May on the crop, with No. 4 yellow as low as 6 1/2 and white and mixed 6 1/2 under the future. Receipts were 225 cars. Ice is breaking up in the Danube river and is expected to release around 400,000 bu. corn available for export. May corn closed at 8 1/2, July at 8 1/2, and September at 8 1/2.

Cash Oats Sales Larger. Shipping sales of 170,000 bu. cash oats were made by local handlers, the largest day's business in some time. Receipts were 194 cars. Unfavorable weather over the winter wheat territory, with no rain falling over part of the belt, but meeting is getting under way in the southwest. Rye was dull and easier, with nothing reported sold for export. No. 2 on track sold at 10 1/2 under May.

Provisions were dull but slightly firmer on buying of a little lard by cash houses. Liverpool lard closed 69 1/2 under. At the last sale was unchanged to 1/2 higher. The unchanged, and better unchanged to 1/2 higher. Prices follow:

Seconds Meet; To Catch Up Row

PARIS, March 7.—[By the Associated Press.]—Premier Poincaré went today to the Chamber of Deputies to challenge the deputy because of a remark made by him at this afternoon's session which premier considered offensive.

M. Poincaré's seconds are M. M. not; minister of war, and M. Sarraute, minister of colonies. M. de Launay, deputy, and M. de Launay, deputy, are named. Deputies Taittinger and Bousquet are named.

FRANC GOES LOWER.

BY HENRY WALES.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
PARIS, March 7.—[Tribune Staff.]—The franc dropped sharply today, losing almost a full point against the dollar, closing at 25.25, while it had been at 25.50 yesterday. The newspapers were forced to recognize the weakness of the franc after attempting to ignore several days on a request by the government. Every one is talking about the franc's weakness. The franc is expected to drop further, and it is feared that it may be reached this coming week.

Expect Big Price Advances.
Prices are mounting gradually. It is expected that there will be sharp, simultaneous advance of commodities.

It is conceded everywhere that the franc is due to the inflation of 1919, 1920, and 1921. The franc is expected to drop further, and it is feared that it may be reached this coming week.

May Prorogue Parliament.
If the senate refuses to rush passage of Premier Poincaré's financial reform bills, including an additional 10 per cent tax on the power of the state, the premier may demand that the parliament be prorogued for a year.

This would require President M. Poincaré to summon a national assembly when both the senate and chamber of deputies would proceed to Versailles to vote for the election of a president of the financial situation.

TELLS OF TAX BILL.
A. Barthélemy, French consul in Chicago, in discussing France's proposed financial measures, said:

It is not generally known that receipts in 1919 amounted to 2,997,000 francs. Last year, not taking the tax into account, it reached 2,534,000, which means an increase of 16.3 per cent. In 1923, instead of 2,534,000 francs, the receipts were 2,997,000 francs. The proposal is to make a further effort by the amount of 425 francs per head instead of 500. There is no answer to their answer.

MANIAC SEIZED MENACING LIFE OF U.S. MARSHAL

A. A. Arnold, last of the four patients who escaped during the burning fire to be large. He was last night after he had been taken to the federal building. He was taken to the federal building by the federal marshal, J. P. Rooney, and J. P. Rooney, chief of the federal bureau of investigation.

The trace of Arnold had been plain since his escape on the night of March 26, until several days ago, when he appeared at the federal building. He was taken to the federal building by the federal marshal, J. P. Rooney, and J. P. Rooney, chief of the federal bureau of investigation.
